VINTAGE

Harvest: August 20th - October 1st

- Plentiful rainfall and a mild Spring set the tone for a lovely early growing season. However, the hottest July on record expedited ripening and reduced berry size and overall yields. Though August was free from extreme heat events, a string of 100+ degree days in early September ushered in what would be an early to start and early to finish vintage. Natural acidity was retained as sugar ripeness outpaced other typical indicators such as tannin softness, seed ripeness and color intensity.
